SUMMARY

As a recent graduate from Pokhara University with a Bachelor of Engineering in Information Technology, I, Susan Timalcina, am equipped with excellent interpersonal and leadership skills that foster a positive work environment. I possess highly developed listening and communication skills, allowing me to excel as a team player in exacting situations. My ambition as a software developer is to continually explore new fields, integrate fresh perspectives, and maintain currency with the latest innovations. A profound drive to understand and harness technology's intricacies, coupled with an insatiable appetite for knowledge, propels me towards impactful software development, where I intend to leave a substantive mark on the field.
